SUBJECT INDEX

AGRICULTURE

INTEGRATED PEST MANAGEMENT IN CHINA
Robert L. Metcalf and Arthur Kelman
5,000 years of recorded experience in combating insect pests by the practical Chinese.
May 1981, p. 14

*AGRICULTURE: MIXED FARMING SYSTEMS
Miguel Altieri
Mixed cropping, agro-forestry, and organic farming as a more stable alternative to conventional energy—and pesticide-intensive farming.
December 1981, p. 5

THE COURTS

*LAW: CITIZEN SUIT LITIGATION
Ross Sandler
Any citizen may seek federal court help to force agency compliance or punishment of offenders.
March 1981, p. 38

*LAW: HURDLES BLOCKING CITIZEN SUITS AGAINST POLLUTERS
Ross Sandler
It is ever more difficult for a citizen to influence enforcement of environmental laws.
April 1981, p. 44

*LAW: COMBAT ON ATTORNEYS' FEES
Ross Sandler
The question of "public interest" complicates the charging and paying of fees in environmental litigation
June 1981, p. 41

*LAW: SUPREME COURT OUSTS ENVIRONMENTAL PLAINTIFFS
Ross Sandler
Federal bureaucracies are given precedence by federal courts in dealing with problems of the environment.
July/August 1981, p. 4

*LAW: SUPREME COURT TRENDS IN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW
Ross Sandler
A decidedly conservative Court, but one that is not necessarily adverse to environmental claims.
September 1981, p. 4

ECOLOGY/ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

WINTER NAVIGATION ON THE GREAT LAKES
Janice Crossland
Is it economically and environmentally feasible to keep the Great Lakes open for winter shipping?
January/February 1981, p. 25

*ECOLOGY: INDUSTRY SAVES A TURTLE
Harvey J. Berman
How Monsanto protects the vanishing Illinois mud turtle.
March 1981, p. 39

*CONSERVATION: PLANTS FOR THE ROAD
Carl C. Wright
A vegetation program controls erosion, beautifies highways and protects wildlife.
March 1981, p. 40

A CONSERVATIVE'S PROGRAM FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
Malcolm Forbes Baldwin
Wise management of natural resources sought by conservatives of yesterday and today.
April 1981, p. 25

EGYPT: AFTER THE ASWAN DAM
Susan Walton
Health hazards need to be balanced against the increased irrigation and electric power made possible by the dam.
May 1981, p. 30

*INTERNATIONAL: SAVING THE MEDITERRANEAN
Mark J. Kurlansky
Countries bordering the sea and polluting it are rising above political animosities to clean it up.
June 1981, p. 2

*ECOLOGY: HOW MUCH OF THIS LAND IS OUR LAND?
Arthur H. Westing
Burgeoning human populations are crowding out plants and animals with which we share the earth.
July/August 1981, p. 5

THE ENVIRONMENT IN THE EIGHTIES
Council on Environmental Quality Staff
A final report by the outgoing CEQ staff on the crucial environmental issues of the next decade.
July/August 1981, p. 40

AN ECOLOGICAL APPROACH TO PEST MANAGEMENT: THE CLEAR LAKE EXAMPLE
Sherburne F. Cook, Jr.
One of the first successful attempts to reduce population levels of native pest species through an ecological systems approach to pest management.
December 1981, p. 25

ENVIRONMENTAL MEDIATION

*LAW: SETTLEMENT OF STORM KING
Ross Sandler
Balance of environmental and energy needs achieved through mediation.
January/February 1981, p. 5

ENERGY

General

ELECTRIC UTILITIES: A TIME OF TRANSITION
Vince Taylor
Expansion of nuclear power is not needed as a substitute for oil-generated power.
May 1981, p. 25

*ENERGY: ENERGY EDUCATION AND THE ENVIRONMENT
John M. Fowler
Whether within the environmental education curriculum, or as a separate program, energy education needs special emphasis.
May 1981, p. 40

*CANADA: THE NATIONAL ENERGY PROGRAM
Robert C. Paehlke
Three aspects: conversion of home heating; reclaiming the foreign-owned Canadian oil industry; federal encouragement for oil and gas exploration.
June 1981, p. 4

Wasteful subsidized development of coastal barriers vs. government preservation in their natural state.
November 1981, p. 6

HEALTH ISSUES

*HEALTH: TAKING CARE OF OURSELVES
Bruce Stokes
Self-care is a useful complement to an already overtaxed health care system.
May 1981, p. 42

CANCER IN THE WORKPLACE: THE CASE FOR PREVENTION
Devra Lee Davis
Saving persons by effective preventive measures could also cut high future costs for treatment.
July/August 1981, p. 25

*LAW: LEAD CONTROVERSY REOPENED
Eric A. Goldstein
Industry is continuing its efforts to gut the lead-in-gas regulations.
November 1981, p. 4

LAND USE

THE UNDERWATERED WEST
David Sheridan
Precious water sources and courses have fallen prey to excessive development and remedies must be found for lack of water.
March 1981, p. 6

THE DESERT BLOOMS—AT A PRICE
David Sheridan
Role of the federal government in promoting urban and agricultural development in arid West.
April 1981, p. 6

WESTERN RANGELANDS: OVERGRAZED AND UNDERMANAGED
David Sheridan
Can the trend toward massive soil erosion and destruction of natural grasses and shrubs be reversed?
May 1981, p. 6

Don Goldman
Supporting the Wilderness Preservation Act.
October 1981, p. 4

THE CHANGING RURAL LANDSCAPE
Robert G. Healy and James L. Short
The rising demand for rural land throughout the United States could threaten its productive and aesthetic value.
December 1981, p. 6

POLLUTION

Air

*LEGISLATION: THE CLEAN AIR ACT
Lois Ember
Possible effects of Reagan Administration policy.
April 1981, p. 2

MEASURING AND MANAGING POLLUTANTS
Noel de Nevers
Many diverse factors enhance (or invalidate) the setting of thresholds for acceptable levels of air pollutants.
June 1981, p. 25

CONGRESS CONFRONTS THE ISSUES
Morris A. Ward
The Clean Air Act is up for reauthorization; prospects for various provisions are assessed.
July/August 1981, p. 6

CLEANING UP THE ACT: I
National Clean Air Act Coalition
Proposals of environmental groups for what should be retained and what changed in the Clean Air Act.
July/August 1981, p. 16

CLEANING UP THE ACT: II
National Environmental Development Association
Industry/labor coalition suggests changes in the Clean Air Act designed to reduce impediments to economic growth.
July/August 1981, p. 17

ECONOMIC APPROACHES TO AIR POLLUTION CONTROL
Armin Rosencranz
Financial incentives to industry may be more economically efficient than regulation.
October 1981, p. 25

Chemical

DIOXINS: TOXIC AND STILL TROUBLESOME
David Kriebel
What is known and what needs to be known about these widespread and highly poisonous pollutants.
January/February 1981, p. 6

SUPERFUND: A LEGAL UPDATE
Jeffrey Trauberman
Toxics cleanup legislation compensates public institutions for damages but not individuals.
March 1981, p. 25

*LAW: PCBs: A STATUS REPORT
Jacqueline Warren
Federal agencies still unsuccessful in protecting public against these toxic industrial chemicals.
May 1981, p. 2

*LAW: EPA'S FAILURE TO REGULATE TOXIC CHEMICALS
Jacqueline M. Warren and Ross Sandler
Despite the clear mandate of TSCA, EPA has so far done little to regulate harmful chemicals, and prospects for future regulation look bleak.
December 1981, p. 2

OCCUPATIONAL HAZARDS

WORKER/PUBLIC PROTECTION: THE DOUBLE STANDARD
Patrick Derr, Robert Goble, Roger E. Kasperson, and Robert W. Kates
An examination of the extent to which workers are reimbursed for the risks they experience on the job.
September 1981, p. 6

RISK AND REWARD: HAZARD PAY FOR WORKERS
Julie Graham and Don Shakow
Why do only some workers receive extra compensation for the hazards they encounter in their jobs?
October 1981, p. 14

RISKS ON THE JOB: THE WORKER'S RIGHT TO KNOW
Mary Melville
Information and training programs in three industries: lead, pesticides, and nuclear energy.
November 1981, p. 12

SCIENCE AND SOCIETY

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE AND POLICY IN CHINA
Baruch Boxer
A program of environmental protection, resource management, and pollution control needed in China's drive for modernization.
June 1981, p. 14

ISAAC ASIMOV ON SCIENCE AND AMERICAN SOCIETY: AN INTERVIEW
Fred Jerome
Wide-ranging comments: U.S. anti-intellectualism focusing on science; budget-cutting of non-military science research; dirth of good science teachers.
September 1981, p. 25

TRANSPORTATION

FUEL FOR THOUGHT: THE HYDROGEN-POWERED AUTOMOBILE
Rif S. El-Mallakh
Though hydrogen leads in fuel economy, road performance, safety and pollution control, many problems remain.
April 1981, p. 30

*INTERNATIONAL: BICYCLING IN BRITAIN
Mark J. Kurlansky
Lobbying at the local government level has produced some notable successes for England's bikers.
December 1981, p. 4

UNIONS AND ENVIRONMENT

*INTERNATIONAL: WORKERS AND THE ENVIRONMENT
Mark J. Kurlansky
Fear of unemployment drives workers to side with management against environmental activists.
May 1981, p. 4

WASTE MANAGEMENT

*RESOURCES: FOOD WASTE IS ENERGY WASTE
Anita Borghese
Innovative ways to cut waste and feed the elderly.
July/August 1981, p. 2

WASTE MANAGEMENT: THE CLEANING OF AMERICA
Martin V. Melosi
Various technologies—some traditional some innovative—employed in collection and disposal of solid waste.
October 1981, p. 6

WASTE MANAGEMENT: BEYOND THE THROWAWAY ETHIC
Neil Seldman and Joh Huls
Rediscovery and increasing use of recycling technologies.
November 1981, p. 25
